PISA, the virtual capital of Tuscany at the time of the collapse of the Roman Empire. Pisa, located in western Tuscany, is known throughout the world for its famous Leaning Tower, but there is so much more to Pisa than just this striking landmark. The ecclesiastical city of Pisa began life as a seaside settlement around 3,000 years ago and was first laid out in the mid-eleventh century. Pisa is crammed full of wonderful, historical monuments and buildings dating back many hundreds of years and much of Pisa has retained its medieval appearance.

LUCCA: The city has a great historic and artistic heritage, which it has jealously protected throughout the centuries. The historic city centre is characterised by magnificent palazzi, gardens, ancient medieval towers, bastioned city walls and traditional shops. Lucca contains an endless number of churches, many of these churches have a typical Romanesque architecture. It is also called "the city of 100 churches." One of the city's main features are its open spaces, the many gardens and internal courtyards of the ancient houses, the long row of trees that line the length of the city walls and the impressive oaks that even grow from the top of the ancient Guinigi Tower.
